“Things To Learn From A Dog”

Never pass up the opportunity to go for a joy ride. Allow simple things like the experience of fresh air and the wind in your face to be pure ecstasy. When loved ones come home, always run to greet them. Practice obedience to your Master.

Take naps; stretch before rising. Run, Romp, and play daily. Play with children. Eat with gusto and enthusiasm. Be loyal. Never pretend to be something you’re not. If what you want lies buried, dig until you get it.

When someone is having a bad day, be silent, sit close by, and nuzzle them gently. Thrive on attention, and let people get close to you. Avoid biting, when a simple growl will do. When you’re happy, let others see it. No matter how often you’re scolded, don’t buy into the guilt thing and pout. Run right back and make friends. Bond with your pack. Delight in the simple joy of a long walk. — Glad Tidings of Good Things Volume 12

“For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil.” — 1 Peter 3:10-12
“The Kicker”

The place of the kicker in NFL history is an interesting study. For many years, kickers were not held in very high esteem. Consider the following: In 1971 when Marv Levy went to the Washington Redskins to coach special teams for George Allen, there were only two full-time special team coaches in the league. Usually, special team duties were simply added to another coaches responsibility and received little work. However, the next season when the Redskins blocked fifteen kicks, including one that pulled them to within seven of the undefeated Dolphins in Super Bowl VII, other teams in the league took notice. The fact the Jan Stenerud is the only player in the Pro Football Hall of Fame for his kicking speaks volumes about how kicking was viewed in the early days of the NFL. If you are a professional football fan, then you know that a great deal more emphasis is placed on kickers and special teams today. Today, top kickers command multi-million dollar salaries. With just over 46 percent of games being decided by 7 points or less and 24 percent of games being decided by 3 points or less (in the last 20 years), the emphasis on kicking seems warranted. The kicker can be, and often is, the difference between a win or a loss. I have told you all of these football facts to make a point. I am afraid that many congregations look at some of their members in the way the NFL teams used to look at kickers and other special team players. They emphasize a few “important” players but overlook others. Of course, God in His wisdom has always emphasized the importance of every member. Paul emphasized to the Corinthians that the foot was not to say, “Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body” (1 Cor. 12:15). Furthermore, the head was not to say to the feet, “I have not need of thee” (1 Cor. 12:21). God put every member into the body for a reason. Every member in the body is important — even the foot.

The health and happiness of the body are dependent upon each its members. Whether the team that we are a part of wins or loses will depend in part upon how we see the “little” members of the team. If we realize their importance and give time and attention to them, they will often make the difference in the success that we enjoy. — Wade Webster

Washer Settings

One day a housework-challenged husband decided to wash his sweatshirt. Seconds after he stepped into the laundry room, he shouted to his wife, “What setting do I use on the washing machine?” “It depends,” she replied, “What does it say on your shirt?” He yelled back, “Texas A&M.” — Cybersalt Digest
